

THE SHARK STORY

Charlie loved to fish. His dad first took Charlie fishing [show/ when/ race] he was about four. Charlie liked [he/ to/ in] fish at the ocean best. He [lighten/ between/ enjoyed] pulling in different types of fish [off/ day/ see] the pier near where Charlie's family [was/ had/ yet] a beach cottage.

One day, while [on/ as/ to] the pier fishing, Charlie met a [have/ when/ girl] about his own age. Julie also [liked/ about/ knight] to fish a lot. Her dad [beside/ taught/ differ] her many great fishing tricks. Charlie [was/ did/ for] curious to see how a girl [while/ sight/ could] fish.

Charlie knew he must be [a/ it/ my] better fisherman than Julie because he [hat/ art/ was] a guy. All the great fisherman [were/ when/ your] men. In tournaments, you never see [about/ women/ heart], Charlie thought to himself. Charlie felt confident [by/ he/ is] could fish better than Julie.

The [outside/ between/ fishing] was pretty slow. Charlie caught a [couple/ water/ cream] of bluefish that were not very [top/ one/ big]. Charlie was throwing his line back [were/ tell/ into] the water when Julie started to [inside/ scream/ liking].

Julie had a big fish on [the/ saw/ you] line and it was pulling on [too/ for/ her] line hard. She could barely hold [on/ if/ put] to her fishing rod. Julie braced [herself/ differs/ impress] against the pier and started to [seat/ your/ reel] in the fish. Julie fought with [ask/ the/ tea] fish for at least a half [hour/like/ tree]. The fish did not want to [in/ be/ at] reeled in. The fish would fight [for/ out/ and] fight and then would rest for [awhile/ could/ ready]. It was during the fish's resting [died/ were/ time] that Julie would try her best to [bean/ were/ reel] in the fish.

Julie finally asked [her/ out/ not] father to help her finish reeling [as/ of/ in] her catch. Her dad also had [a/ in/ by] difficult time reeling in the fish. [As/ He/ In] finally was able to pull it [at/ in/ of]. Much to the surprise of everyone [who/ good/ find] had gathered around Julie and her [sprint/ thatch/ / father], when the fish was finally reeled [go/ in/ at], Julie had caught a shark!

The [dismal/ shark/ could] was about ten feet long and [arm/ hot/ had] some terrible looking teeth. Charlie had [arm/ slack/ never] caught a shark and was amazed [that/ hurl/ want] anyone could catch one, much less [of/ it/ a] girl. Everyone on the pier was congratulating Julie [is/ on/ a] her catch. Julie thanked her dad [for/ how/ you] helping her. Her dad said Julie [see/ one/ did] most of the work herself.

Charlie [did/ say/ was] so impressed with Julie's fishing ability. [He/ To/ / Of] asked her to tell him her [friend/ caught/ fishing] tricks. Maybe I can learn something [from/ bead/ take] Julie and even gain a new [beside/ friend/ muzzle], Charlie thought to himself.
